

ARTHUR J. ROGERS & CO.'S NORM ROSS RETIRES

(Elk Grove Village, Illinois) - Arthur J. Rogers & Co. announces the firm's Vice President, Norm Ross has retired after 17 years with the firm.

"I want to personally thank Norm for his dedication to our organization, his commitment to, and utmost regard for, customer service and professionalism. He leaves behind a legacy of excellence," said William G. Schmitz, RPA, CEO and President of Arthur J. Rogers & Co. "Norm will be missed by everyone at Arthur J. Rogers & Co., his clients and colleagues throughout the industry. We wish him all the best in his new adventures and look forward to the stories he will undoubtedly have to share."

Ross joined Arthur J. Rogers & Co. in 2000, as Vice President of Industrial/Commercial Properties. He brought extensive experience to his work, stemming from over 35 years of history in the metropolitan Chicago commercial real estate market. During his time with the firm, Ross was responsible for the leasing and marketing activities for Rogers Centre for Commerce and Rogers Executive Parke in Lake County, Illinois. In addition, he assisted clients with the acquisitions, dispositions and lease negotiations of properties throughout the Chicagoland area. Prior to joining the firm, Ross was the founder and president of Ross Management, a firm specializing in industrial development and management in the Chicagoland area.

"I want to thank everyone at Arthur J. Rogers & Co. for their camaraderie, support and their commitment to success. They made this portion of my career all the more enjoyable. It was a pleasure to come to work every day and I will miss them all," said Ross. "I would also like to thank my clients for their trust and loyalty as well as all the vendors, colleagues and friends with whom I have had the pleasure to work these past many years."

Ross is a graduate of Roosevelt University with a BS/BA in Finance. Norm plans to remain active in both business and leisure time.
